Information for Exchange Students
2024/2025

2 // The university – HTWK Leipzig

Leipzig University of Applied Sciences was founded in 1992. With a total of more than 6500 students, it is one of the largest universities of applied sciences in Germany. The distinguishing characteristic of HTWK Leipzig is its practice-oriented study, which enables students to achieve accredited bachelor's or master's degree qualifications after an intensive and short period of study. Studying at HTWK Leipzig is oriented towards the demands and requirements of the world of employment and prepares students for challenging academic careers in the fields of engineering, economics, social sciences and cultural studies.

The advantages of studying at HTWK Leipzig:

- » No tuition fees
- » A low-priced semester ticket
- » An individual study atmosphere with studying in small groups
- » State of the art facilities with new laboratories and studios
- » High practical orientation—strong research departments
- » Active campus life with all facilities located within close proximity
- » A family-friendly university
- » Leipzig: a student city with international flair

Leipzig – a vibrant city for students

// 3

With its cosmopolitan and creative atmosphere, Leipzig has always been a popular student location. The city, which is home to more than 600,000 residents, has many different names, for example “the city of trade and trade fairs”, “the city of books and media” and “the city of science and culture”.

When it comes to young people, Leipzig offers a wide range of attractions and activities around the clock, be it music, theatre, political satire and comedy, film or sports. Students also love to spend the night chatting away in one of the city's many cafés, student clubs, pubs or hotspots. The “Neuseenland” lake district and the many green parks located in and around the city complete Leipzig's broad spectrum of leisure and recreational opportunities.

Prominent figures such as Goethe, Lessing, Leibniz and Kästner all chose Leipzig as a place to study and year after year for more than 600 years, young people have been following in their footsteps, making Leipzig their study location and second home. The “Thomanerchor” boys' choir and Gewandhaus Orchestra are closely connected to Johann Sebastian Bach and Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy and are ambassadors of Leipzig's vibrant and rich culture and spirit far beyond the borders of the city.

Language of instruction

German; partly in English

Language proficiency

Study at our university usually takes place in German. For this reason, you should have at least level B2 in German (according to the Common European Framework of Reference). Some programmes also include courses taught in English, for which the language level B2 (CEFR) in English is a prerequisite. We strongly recommend that exchange students take German language lessons during the exchange semester, as general structures and university life function largely in German.

8 // Welcoming students to Leipzig

Buddy Programme

The Department of Student Affairs organizes a Buddy Programme to support international students in Leipzig. Students from all faculties at HTWK Leipzig volunteer to assist their fellow international students, making it easier for them to start their studies in Germany. You'll be automatically enrolled in the Buddy Programme upon admission to our university. After admission, a student buddy will contact you via email to address initial questions and arrange a meeting point for pickup upon arrival in Leipzig.

Orientation Week

The mandatory Orientation Week is for all exchange students and takes place before the beginning of each semester. It enables you to integrate rapidly into the campus and social life in Leipzig. During the Orientation Week, you will get practical advice and important information about our university. You will have the opportunity to ask any question concerning your stay and your studies in Leipzig.

Accommodation

If you would like to live together with other German and international students in a hall of residence run by the Studentenwerk Leipzig, you can find all relevant information with the letter of acceptance.

Known in German as Wohngemeinschaften or WGs, flat-shares are particularly popular among students in Leipzig. „WG-Gesucht“ and „Schwarze Bretter“ are some of the best-known services for finding a room in a Wohn-gemeinschaft.

Be sure to allow enough time to search for an apartment in Leipzig.

Estimated costs of living

Housing (student hall of residence)

Between 220-500 Euro per month,
Plus an additional 300 Euro refundable security deposit

Living expenses (other)
